Reporting & Analytics

Reporting & Analytics

Offering at-a-glance dashboards, thorough web reports and customizable data exports, Convercent provides comprehensive and cohesive insight into the effectiveness of your compliance program.

Convercent offers a single location for all of your compliance tools and data to work together to address your risks, achieve your objectives and measure your progress. Offering three levels of reporting, Convercent provides broad and deep insight into compliance program effectiveness so that you can easily access and analyze data to defend your company, measure the effectiveness of your initiatives and continually enhance your compliance program.

To demonstrate an effective compliance program, an organization collects, tracks, monitors, reports and benchmarks any number of compliance program metrics and data points—usually across 10 or more disparate systems like SharePoint, email, Excel, LMS and others.

This traditional approach is not only inefficient, but risk-laden and ineffective due to data disconnects and program gaps. An ineffective program is less likely to identify, address or mitigate compliance risk—and it certainly won't hold up to regulatory scrutiny.

Convercent offers a single location for all of your compliance tools and data to work together to address your risks, achieve your objectives and measure your progress. Organizing and presenting your compliance program data by your risk areas, Convercent serves up the information you need to know most so that you can prioritize your efforts and corrective action plans accordingly.

Offering three levels of reporting, Convercent makes it easier than ever to measure program effectiveness, establish program benchmarks, prioritize resources where they're most needed and assemble forward-facing reports.

At-a-Glance Dashboard Reports

Leverage rapid, at-a-glance views of key compliance risks, hotline reports, relationship disclosures, policy attestations and compliance course completions in a single dashboard populated with real-time program results.
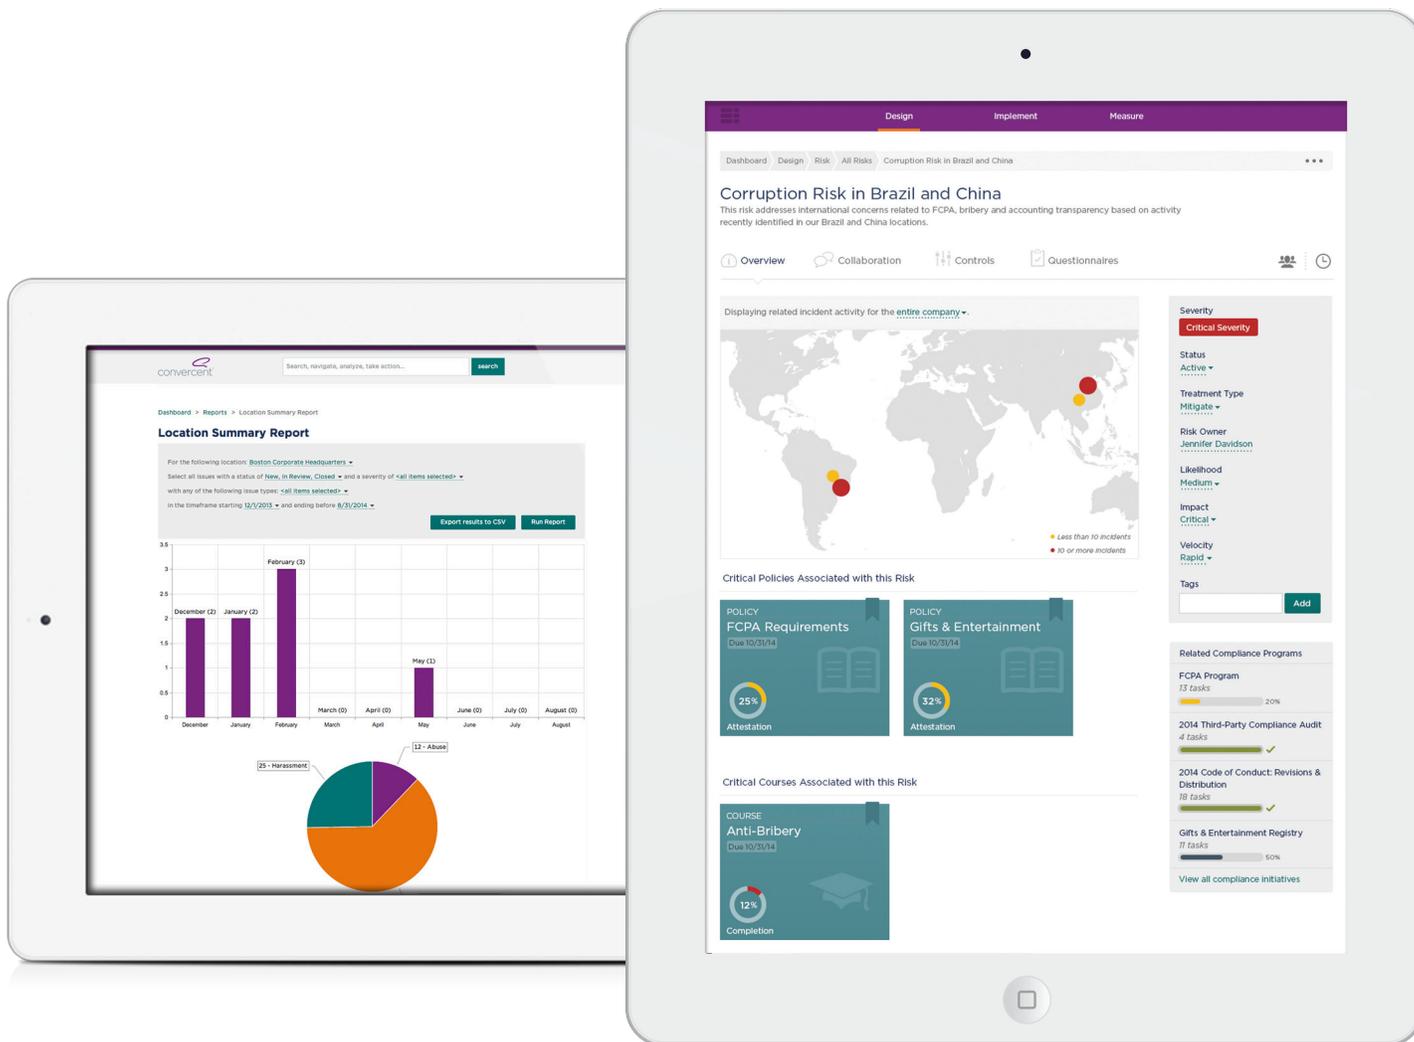

Web-Based Reports

Choose from a variety of prebuilt reports to drill down into and present the information any way you would like, in real time.

Customizable Data Exports

Have powerful and customizable reports and analytics at your fingertips, allowing you to leverage centralized compliance data within tools like Microsoft Excel, Tableau and Hyperion.

Integrated, risk-based insight. To verify, measure and defend program effectiveness in a single location.
